Our Readers Say

AN ALIBI SMASHED

Dear AFRO,

While Southern governors and some faculty members of Division II are still fuming with rage at the outlawing of segregation in our schools, forces behind the scenes are setting up battlefronts for the next onslaught from the forces of "civil rights," which will be compulsory FEPC in private industry.

Locally, the forces of civil rights have smashed three main barriers in successful sequences: The first was outlawing of restrictions and restrictive covenants in residential areas; next, the opening of hotels and restaurants to all races; and third, the 1963 vote of Supreme Court outlawing segregation in the schools.

Of all the Supreme Court decisions, the outlawing of segregation in education is by far the most important.

Results from this decision will be a hundredfold but its most important function will be the destruction of the last hiding place for captains of private industry and their excuse for job bias and discrimination in employment.

Major public utility enterprises such as Potomac Electric and Power Co., Chesapeake and Potomac Telephone Co., Washington Gas Light Co., Capital Transit Company, private enterprises such as banks, department stores, mortgage companies, small loan companies, and Government Services Insurance, have long pretended that they had no objection to hiring colored in skilled and professional categories.

But their hiring policies were governed by the local social pattern as set by the Board of Education.

As long as there was a dual educational setup, the hiring policies had to remain the same. O.K. gentlemen "Segregation is the same, it's been outlawed. What is your move?"

W M FRANKLIN

CHALLENGE TO THE CONSCIENCE

Dear AFRO,

Just and charitable attitudes and conduct toward persons of other religious and racial groups present a continual challenge to the consciences of all men everywhere.

The Catholic Press Association of the United States recognizes the responsibilities of Catholic journalists, to take the lead in promoting such attitudes and conduct as part of their continuing apostolate. This is important especially when difficult situations are local, national or international.

CHARLES J. MCNEILL, president
Catholic Press Association

QUOTE OF THE WEEK: "... Our guest of honor has established himself over a single second Individuals are an infinity of seconds."

The AFRO smelled last week and as flowers were in the lobby, and several rooms.

The occasion was a show presented by the group of the Washington and Garden Guild.

The number of realization of the dream and Mrs. Edith Ann Miller organizes and organizes the guild.

The guild is a nonorganizational, and new young are welcomed. Go ahead take a hint.

A call for help came from AFRO office for a family whose home was demolished.

Donations

Donations may be sent to Beatrice Patterson 811 G. Phone 11 3 6 3 7. Their ages are 2, 14.

Thumbing through book, I found a note to "Crucify the inmates who escape the other Esquites."

A man, who had just been released from jail gave me the details. Said it's true.

I would pull a M.C. this show if you have plans to make too.

Hiram F. Jones, principal of Langle High School says are at who visited the sc 12 took candy bars and milk.

Police are on the lookout for the explanation. They get very sorry.
AN ALIBI SMASHED

Dear AFRO

While Southern governors and some faculty members of Division II are still fuming with rage at the outlawing of segregation in our schools, forces behind the scenes are setting up battlefronts for the next onslaught from the forces of “civil rights” which will be compulsory FEPC in private industry.

Locally, the forces of civil rights have smashed three main barriers in successful sequences.

The first was outlawing of restrictions and restrictive covenants in residential areas: next, the opening of hotels and restaurants to all races: and third, the 9 to 0 vote of Supreme Court outlawing segregation in the schools.

Of all the Supreme Court decisions, the outlawing of segregation in education is by far the most important.

Results from this decision will be a hundredfold but its most important function will be the destruction of the last hiding place for captains of private industry and their excuse for job bias and discrimination in employment.

Major public utility enterprises such as Potomac Electric and Power Co., Chesapeake and Potomac Telephone Co., Washington Gas Light Co., Capital Transit Company, private enterprises such as banks, department stores, mortgage companies, small loan companies, and Government Services Insurance have long pretended that they had no objection to hiring colored in skilled and professional categories.

But their hiring policies were governed by the local social patterns as set by the Board of Education.

As long as there was a dual educational set-up, the hiring policies had to remain the same.

O.K. gentlemen, Segregation in schools has been outlawed. What is your move?

W.M. FRANKLIN